

Faculty of Fine and Applied Arts, Khon Kaen University

Faculty of Fine and Applied Arts, Khon Kaen University was founded by a royal decree on September 13th, 1994. The objectives of the Faculty are:

1. To produce competent students who recognize the values of Northeastern art and culture and who are able to work efficiently in both government and private organizations, and to produce postgraduates who are experts in Northeastern universal and folk art.
2. To be a research center for Northeastern folk art.
3. To be an academic service center of all fields of fine and applied arts for local and international people and organizations.
4. To work together with government and private organizations to conserve, support and develop Northeastern local art.

Not only will the graduates become the experts in the field but will also be the main force in the in-depth conservation, research and studies of Northeastern art and culture.
