

Faculty of Fine and Applied Arts,
Prince of Songkla University, Pattani Campus

In 1997, the “Establishment Project of the Faculty of Fine Arts,” Prince of Songkla University was approved by the Ministry of University Affairs. Then on October 21st, 2000, the university council agreed to change the name to the “Establishment Project of the Faculty of Fine and Applied Arts” and submitted this to the Ministry of University Affairs to get the approval from the Council of Ministers.

Faculty of Fine and Applied Arts was later established as a government agency funded by annual government budget. The Faculty’s operation is a centralized administrative system, consisting of different programs instead of different departments. The faculty started accepting the students majoring in Visual Arts and Performing arts in 2002, followed by the Applied Arts program in 2003.
